

9. ICAS – IFAR Award

9.1 The ICAS–IFAR Award was established in 2016 by the International Council of the Aeronautical Sciences (ICAS) and the International Forum for Aviation Research (IFAR). The Award shall honour an individual who has made a significant contribution to Aeronautical Science within his/her doctoral thesis (PhD or equivalent). The recipient can only achieve this award once.

9.2 The three final candidates for the Award shall be forwarded from IFAR to ICAS for review and recommendation by the Honours and Awards Committee (H&AC). The recipient shall be within two years of the date when the PhD was obtained. The recipient also shall be under 40 years old when the nomination is submitted.

9.3 The Award is to be presented at the ICAS Congress by the ICAS President and the IFAR Chair after the IFAR Plenary Session. The recipient must deliver a lecture at the Congress. .

9.4 The H&A Committee considers the three IFAR proposals and brings forward a slate of nominees to the Executive Committee, together with an assessment of their relative merit, in time for consideration at the Executive Committee meeting immediately preceding the next Congress.

9.5 The selection committee for the Award consists of the Executive Committee. The selection is by simple majority voting, taking into account the evaluation of the nominations by the H&A Committee. The chair of the H&A Committee or a spokesman for the Committee attends the EC meeting at which the selection is made.

9.6 The Award takes the form of a medal and the Certificate of the Award with the name of the recipient, the year of the Award, the Award name and the ICAS and IFAR logos, and signed by the ICAS President and the IFAR Chair.

9.7 No current member of any ICAS body which is involved in the selection process may be considered for the Award
